As illustialive of the progress of woman, we may cite from the New York Nation a paragraph concerning the women of Finland, a Russian province, which shows a greater advancement for the sex than even our own country can claim: They enjoy the elective franchise in local or communal affairs, and are eligible to office as members of school boards and as councillors and directors in the administration of almshouses and other charitable institutions. About one thousand women are now employed in post-offices, railroad and telegraph bureaus and other departments of the public service; more than nine hundred are engaged as teachers in schools of various grades, and it is not uncommon to see among their pupils young men of eighteen who are preparing for an academical or commercial career. Three thousand, at least, are in banks or in trade, and more than one-third of these are either owners or independent managers of the business. Of the eighty poorhouses in Finland, fifty-two have female superintendents. Many landed estates and all dairies are directed by women, who, in a few cases have also founded and carried on important manufactories. C. W. W. Christianity is above all religions, and religion is not a method. It is a life, a communion with God, a calm and deep enthusiasm, a love which radiates, a force which acts, a happiness which overflows.--Amiel. Loving kindness is greater than laws; and the charities of life are greater...
