I The following sketch was written in great haste for the purpose of reading before an out-door assembly. In preparing it my chief aim was to catch the ear of my audience by the recital of a few details which would be most likely to secure attention because of their personal and local nature. As a consequence, it makes no pretensions to the dignity and requirements of a complete history. This explanation seems proper now that the sketch is to be published, and exposed to that severer criticism which printed words always receive. It claims no merit beyond a careful attempt at accuracy of statement. It is but justice to add that I am indebted for a large part of the facts which I have related to my father, J. Wickham Case, whose acquaintance with the history of the Town is far superior to mine. Albertson Case. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
